

Your business telephony system is your most important technology investment. Get it right and your organisation's window to the outside world becomes an automated marketing tool, a financial controller and a security system. Get it wrong and you could be losing customers before they even talk to someone and not even know it.